FORT BENNING, GA – The Army's ranger community will honor 17 alumni when they are inducted into the Ranger Hall of Fame at 1:30 p.m. August 8 in Infantry Hall's Marshall Auditorium.

Among the honorees is retired Gen. Barry R. McCaffrey, former director of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy.

The Ranger Hall of Fame was formed to honor and preserve the spirit and contributions of America's soldiers.

Ranger units and regimental associations nominate a maximum of three rangers per year for induction into the Hall of Fame. The nominees are scrutinized and inductees selected by a Ranger Hall of Fame selection board.

To be eligible for nomination, a soldier must be a successful graduate of the U.S. Army Ranger School; deceased, have been separated or retired from active military service for at least three years; and must have served in a ranger unit in combat.

For more information, or copies of the inductees' biographies, contact the Public Affairs office at 545-3512.
